

AstraBit Regulatory Status and Scope of Services Disclosure

AstraBit and AstraBlox provide a range of technology-enabled products and services for digital assets, including, but not limited to, tokenization, analytics, trading, staking, and related digital-asset financial infrastructure.

Not all products or services offered by AstraBit and AstraBlox constitute broker-dealer activities, nor are all such products or services subject to regulation by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"), the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), or any other U.S. securities or commodities regulator.

IMPORTANT: Only those services that are expressly identified and disclosed by AstraBit and AstraBlox as regulated broker-dealer services (or as otherwise conducted pursuant to a specific U.S. regulatory authority) should be understood to be provided in a regulated capacity. Any service not explicitly designated as a regulated broker-dealer service should be presumed to be non-broker-dealer in nature and not subject to SEC or FINRA oversight.

Accordingly, customers may engage with certain products and services of AstraBit and AstraBlox that involve digital assets, digital asset protocols, or related services that are not registered securities, not offered by our broker-dealer, and not subject to the investor protections, supervisory requirements, or regulatory remedies applicable to regulated activities.

AstraBit and AstraBlox are committed to transparency and will clearly and affirmatively disclose which services, if any, are provided pursuant to SEC, FINRA, or other U.S. regulatory authority.

We strongly recommend that you consult your licensed financial professional before making any decisions regarding the use of AstraBit and/or AstraBlox products or services. Customers are responsible for reviewing ALL disclosures carefully and for understanding the regulatory status of each service PRIOR to use.

Participation in non-regulated services may involve materially different risks, including reduced regulatory protections, limited dispute resolution mechanisms, and different treatment under U.S. federal and state law.

If you have any questions or require further clarification regarding the regulatory status of any AstraBit or AstraBlox service or product, including whether such service is subject to U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") or Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") oversight, or whether related disclosures are provided pursuant to Regulation Best Interest ("Reg BI"), please contact us at support@astrabit.io